Highlights of the Meeting

- Introductions and updates
- Ravi Gandham provided posters, flyers and walked us through the online resources on NCWIT and EngageCSEdu.
- Martin Hock did a demo on a tool that he created that guides the students through syntax and verifies it with the problem using web based software that can be integrated with Canvas. He is testing it out this quarter and provided the materials through the mailing list.
- Tyler Dillon, student from South Seattle College presented about his hour of code sessions at South Seattle college. These sessions are an hour long and open to all students.

- We discussed textbooks that we use in our courses and what are some good textbooks for some specific courses.
